

I know

Music & lyrics: Kim Walker

So you think, so you think you can live without me?
And you think perfect friends never disagree?
That true love will bring sunshine without rain?
But that's not real and I'll say it once again.

So you think, so you think you can smile without me?
And you think that money's all you need?
When you've bought answers to the problems you now fear,
from lonely silence it's my voice you'll want to hear.

And I know you think that it's over,
And I know you need to feel free.
You'll soon learn that no love is perfect.
Then I know you'll be coming back to me.

So you think, so you think love will grow without trying?
And you think if you must try then it can't be right?
Well nothing grows and all will perish, in a vacuum.
What we love most we can't give up without a fight.

And I know you think that it's over,
And I know you need to feel free.
You'll soon learn that no love is perfect.
Then I know you'll be coming back to me.

Were you sad that time we said goodbye?
Did you even shed one tear?
When you realize just what we had,
This mistake will be painfully clear.

So you think, so you think I can live without you?
And you think tomorrow's just another day?
Every day I'm waking up from the same nightmare,
I'm dreaming you can't hear me when I say

And I know you think that it's over,
And I know you need to feel free.
You'll soon learn that no love is perfect.
I know, and I know that you know that I know,
I just know you'll be coming back to me.
Yeah I know, and I know that you know that I know,
I just know you'll be coming back to me.
